Air Force Cuts
To Get Support
As War Fizzles

By ROWLAND EVANS JR.
WASHINGTON (P)—Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich.) predicted today that a cease-fire in Korea would put the squeeze on Congress members who contend President Eisenhower's budget for the Air Force has been cut too sharply.

But at the same time, Ferguson cautioned that the nation "must not be lulled into a sense of false security" by a cease-fire, which seems likely within a few days. Basic long-range defense planning, he said in an interview, must not be changed.

In advance of further testimony today on the Air Force budget by Secretary of Defense Wilson, Ferguson said he foresaw possible savings of between 1½ and 2 billion dollars for such Korean War items as ammunition, troop rotation and the cost of combat flights.

Ferguson is chairman of a Senate appropriations subcommittee now in the midst of public hearings over the controversial five billion dollar cutback and a reduced 120-wing Air Force goal by 1955.

He said senators, most of them Democrats, who are insisting on reinstatement of the 143-wing goal by 1955 proposed by the Truman administration are in a "very much weaker position" now that a Korean cease-fire seems imminent.

Wilson told the subcommittee yesterday the Eisenhower Air Force program would guarantee the nation what he said it already has—"the best Air Force" in the world. Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg, outgoing Air Force chief of staff, told the subcommittee last week the cutbacks would mean the U. S. would have a "second-best" Air Force.

Officers Working
On Final Details
Of Korean Truce

By ROBERT B. TUCKMAN
PANMUNJOM (P)—Staff officers worked today on final details of a Korean armistice as hundreds of thousands of South Koreans demonstrated violently against the impending truce that will leave their nation divided.

The liaison officers met for an hour and 20 minutes. Both sides brought maps into the conference hut, indicating they were working out a cease-fire line.

Agreement Nearly Ready
The South Korean Assembly, backing up its leaders' unswerving opposition to the armistice terms, called for "all necessary measures" to prepare for a "northward advance."

Even as Koreans surged wildly through the streets of Seoul, Allied and Communist teams met in the tiny truce hut at Panmunjom for 12 minutes amid increasing signs that an armistice may be signed within the week.

Although an Allied spokesman gave no hint of what took place in the hut, the briefings of the meeting indicated that only finishing touches remained before a cease-fire agreement was reached.

Recess Until Tonight
Lower level officers assembled after the plenary session—possibly to iron out the wording of the document that would call a halt to the bloody three-year-old war.

The Reds asked the recess in the plenary session and another meeting was set for 11 a. m. Wednesday, 8 p. m. Tuesday CST.

Revision of the cease-fire line to follow the present battle line probably was one matter discussed by negotiators and staff officers. The original line was drawn up in November, 1951. Since then it has changed only slightly.

Observers anticipated no serious delay in reaching agreement on a new cease-fire line.

Trouble Ahead
The big obstacle was swept aside Monday with the signing of the agreement providing for voluntary prisoner exchange.

Still, the threat of continued South Korean warfare after a cease-fire agreement worried top U. N. officials.

There was no indication what would happen if the ROK armies refuse to acknowledge a truce. All fighting is to halt 12 hours after the armistice is signed. With-in 72 hours troops of both sides are to pull back to create a buffer zone 2½ miles wide. And at the same time, machinery for the release of prisoners of war will be set in motion.

Congressmen Wary
Of Trick In Truce;
Saving Lives First

By JACK BELL
WASHINGTON (P)—Congress members, wary of possible Communist trickery balanced liabilities against assets today and found little beyond the paramount saving of lives to approve in a Korean truce.

Without notable exception the lawmakers expressed hope that the Republic of Korea government will accept an armistice and avoid what some of them said otherwise could become a dangerous situation for American troops on the battle line.

No Sure Solution
Unanimously, legislators who commented were happy that the shooting seems likely to stop within a few days.

But there was evident dissatisfaction with the truce terms, mixed with a realization among the legislators that a cease-fire will bring little, if any, decline in American expenditures and will offer no solution to pressing Asiatic political problems.

Senators Ferguson (R-Mich.) and Maybank (D-SC) joined in throwing doubt on the possibility of making any material savings as a result of cessation of the fighting.

The two, both members of the Senate Appropriations Committee, said in separate interviews they expect immediate requests for U. S. economic aid in Korea to eat up most of the economies that might accrue from halted military operations.

Restoration Comes High
Ferguson said the situation will have to be surveyed to find out how much prompt rehabilitation can be undertaken in line with President Eisenhower's promise to South Korean President Syngman Rhee that the U. S. will continue economic aid to restore Rhee's devastated land.

"South Korea largely has an agricultural economy and there is a limit on what can be spent in a short space of time," Ferguson observed.

Maybank said rehabilitation costs are likely to be high. The pending Mutual Security Administration bill would provide 111 million dollars for rehabilitation on the limited scale possible while the fighting still was going on.

There have been no official estimates made on aid costs in a truce period, but lawmakers believe any peacetime restoration of South Korea would involve expenditures of billions.

Priest's Home Stoned; Church Ousts 200
PUEBLA, Mexico (P)—Archbishop Octaviano Marquez has excommunicated some 200 Roman Catholics in Tlaxcala for stoning their priest's house.

He said the excommunication also applies to "their children and their children's children."

Roman Catholics in the small Mexican town objected to the sending of a statue of their particular saint, the Virgin of Ocotlan, to another town for a religious celebration. No one was injured and no damage was done to the priest's home.

Slash In Veterans' Benefits Predicted

WASHINGTON (P)—A 300 million dollar cut in veterans' compensation and pension payments—foreshadowing possible curtailment of benefits to veterans with non-service disabilities—has been recommended by a House appropriations subcommittee.

The subcommittee recommendation will be acted on by the full 50-man committee later this week when funds for the Veterans Administration for the fiscal year starting July 1 are considered.

Former President Truman requested 2½ billion dollars for compensation and pension payments for the new fiscal year. President Eisenhower reduced this by 46 million, and the subcommittee shaved it to approximately $2,200,000,000.

The committee decision to cut into the compensation and pension payments followed a staff report. The report said these payments "are in the nature of tax free gifts to the beneficiaries where the veteran had no service connected disability but classed as permanently and totally disabled gets from $63 to $75 monthly. A veteran rated as 10 per cent or more disabled at age 65 is eligible to receive $75 monthly for life. These payments are supposed to be made only if the income of a single person does not exceed $1,400 annually and a married person $2,700. The payments are in addition to social security and other benefits.

Prospects Dim
For Power To Freeze Prices

WASHINGTON (P)—House Democrats planned a last-ditch fight today to try to give President Eisenhower power to freeze prices, wages and rents in a future emergency, but they conceded prospects for success were dim.

The House called up for action what is left of the Defense Production Act: a bill to renew for a year beyond June 30 government authority to allocate critically scarce defense materials, and to continue some financial aids for expansion of defense production.

Controls Scrapped
That's about all that is left of the vast economic controls program launched shortly after the Korean War started. President Eisenhower scrapped price and wage controls shortly after taking office.

Republicans in the House Banking Committee killed, 15-13, a Democratic move for standby control powers. GOP leaders were confident they could beat the proposal by an even larger margin on the floor.

The House committee wrote into the bill a controversial section to extend the authority of the secretary of agriculture to clamp strict quotas of imports of fats and oils, including dairy products, when they begin to hurt American producers by cheaper competition.

Sword Hanging Over

The bill as passed by the Senate did not contain this section. But the Senate bill included a section which would authorize a 90-day freeze on the economy, but only after a congressional declaration of war or a congressional resolution okaying the freeze.

The House Banking Committee struck it from the bill.

Chairman Wolcott (R-Mich.) has argued that Congress could enact controls quickly if needed. He says the mere existence of standby controls on the statute books would be a sword hanging over the head of business.

Rep. Spence (D-Ky), senior Democrat on the committee, said in an interview that the economy will be in "turmoil" in any future war emergency without standby control powers.

"We don't like controls any more than the Republicans," Spence said. "But if we are going to have a Defense Production Act, it ought to meet the needs of the people."

Back President,
Truman Urges

By ERNEST B. VACCARO
KANSAS CITY (P)—Harry S. Truman called today for firm support of President Eisenhower during the critical negotiations in Korea.

The former President declined all comment on developments in that war-torn country and suggested a similar course for others not in authority "and not in possession of the facts."

"In a critical time like this," Truman said in an interview, "there can be but one American foreign policy. The President of the United States has the facts. We must support him in what he does and recommends. Any other course could lead only to confusion."

The 69-year-old Democrat who held the reins of the U. S. government for nearly eight years kept abreast of developments through newspaper and radio accounts.

But he knew, from his own experience in the White House, that a vast amount of secret information which cannot be made immediately available to the public, pours into the President.

Angry South Korean
Mobs Protest Against
Terms Of Armistice

By WILLIAM C. BARNARD
SEOUL (P)—Hundreds of thousands of chanting South Koreans surged through Seoul and other cities today in angry demonstrations against an impending armistice.

Some rocks were hurled by one mob of more than 100,000 which stormed a barricade of bayonet-wielding U. S. military policemen and Korean police outside the Eighth Army headquarters compound here.

Many Trampled
Fire hoses played on the street ahead of the advancing mob halted its forward momentum. As the crowd milled around, 50 Korean policemen waded boldly in, shouting and shoving. A few minutes later the crowd began breaking up.

No U. S. military personnel were reported injured, but many Koreans in the unruly mob were trampled.

One American MP was grabbed by the mob, but a Korean policeman rescued him uninjured.

Other thousands of South Koreans staged protest demonstrations in Pusan, Taegu and Suwon in response to government pleas for an all-out show of resentment against an armistice which would leave the country divided and Chinese Reds in the North.

Schoolgirls Weep
With placards waving, the chanting crowds snake-danced through Seoul's streets. Some of the marchers were sullen. Many were weeping, semi-hysterical school girls.

A group of school girls broke past MP guards at Fifth Air Force headquarters and entered the compound, but adult demonstrators were stopped cold, authorities said.

About 1,000 men and women chanted slogans around a big sign reading "Don't Let U. N. Desert Korea." Ten men bit the ends of their fingers and streaked the sign with blood.

The girls then chanted in unison, in response to the shouts of several leaders. Many appeared semi-hysterical and some collapsed.

Five thousand school children shouted in clusters around Seoul's railroad terminal.

Tens of thousands of marchers paraded into the grounds of the city's battered capital.

Stores and shops were closed tight.

Gala Coronation Opera Decidedly Not A Hit

LONDON (P)—Elizabeth II was a smash hit at the opera last night but Benjamin Britten's version of her namesake didn't make out nearly as well with London's music critics today.

The occasion was the gala premiere of Britten's coronation opera "Gloriana," based on the story of Elizabeth I and the Earl of Essex and dedicated to the newly crowned sovereign. Today's Elizabeth and the bulk of the royal adults headed the most glittering audience that has packed Covent Garden for generations.

Shuffling Of House Seats Becomes Law; Peninsula Is Loser

LANSING (P)—A bill reshuffling seats in the House of Representatives was a state law today with Gov. Williams' signature.

The Democratic chief executive grumbled, however, as he approved the reapportionment measure.

The new law, mandated under a constitutional amendment passed last fall, increases House membership from 100 to 110. It takes effect in 1955.

Wayne County makes the biggest gain, increasing its delegation from 27 to 38. Oakland County increases its representation from five to six. Macomb County goes from two to three.

One seat each are lost in Saginaw County, the Upper Peninsula

Toll 139 Dead,
750 Injured
In 6 Twisters

FLINT, Mich. (P)—Six roaring tornadoes, their black-clouded funnels dealing multi-million dollar destruction, ripped furiously through parts of Michigan and Ohio Monday night, killing 139 and injuring 750.

The most deadly of the shrieking windstorms flung full force against Flint, a heavily industrialized city of 163,000 about 70 miles north of Detroit. In Flint alone at least 113 persons were killed.

Forty houses in one Flint street were flattened like pancakes. Many mangled bodies were found today in the wreckage of homes.

Tornadoes shot the nation's spring twister toll to 358 dead. Alabama, Texas and Oklahoma have been hit hard recently.

The new tornado struck Michigan while the state was still cleaning up the May 21 twister that whirled through the outskirts of Port Huron, Mich., and jumped the St. Clair River and tore through Sarnia, Ont.

First at 6:25 P. M.
The first tornado lashed Erie, Mich., just over the Michigan-Ohio line from Toledo, O., at 6:25 p. m. EST. At 8:10 p. m. a twister hedge-hopped through Washenaw County, 35 miles to the north and swept into Milford, Oakland County, 15 miles to the north and east. Tawas City, midway up the eastern coast of Michigan on Lake Huron, was hit at 7:25 p. m. and Flint at 8:45 p. m.

The tornado area extended from Tawas City down across the Ohio-Michigan border to Bowling Green—a path of 350 miles.

Eight persons died in the twister that struck the Cygnet, O., area; six died in the Cleveland area.

EIGHT-MILE PATH
FLINT (P)—Straight as an arrow for eight devastated miles, Monday night's tornado swept right down Coldwater Road. It affected an area nine blocks wide between Reynolds Ave. on the north and Harvard Ave. on the south.

The twister entered the Flint city limits at Clio Road and finally lifted eight miles later at Center Road, turning northeast and leaving the city.

area; and one each at Elyria and Ceylon.

Hospitals Jammed
Michigan fatalities, in addition to those at Flint, included four dead at Erie; four dead at Tawas City; one at Ann Arbor; and one in Brown City, near Lapeer.

Flint hospitals were filled with the injured—many crowded into corridors still stunned by the swift destruction that hit their homes.

National Guard troops, state police officers from numerous Michigan cities converged on the Flint area to aid in the rescue work. Gov. G. Mennen Williams took personal command but did not declare a state of martial law.

The Flint tornado killed many in homes on Coldwater Road and Kurtz Street, before it hedged-hopped eastward through Michigan's "thumb" toward Lake Huron.

It was so powerful it tossed huge trailer trucks off highways and smashed brick houses as though they were match boxes. One eyewitness said:

"It sounded like the rumbling of a train."

Worse Than London
State officials said the Flint disaster probably was the greatest in Michigan's history.

Donald S. Leonard, Detroit police commissioner said the twister damage was worse than that he saw in London during the "blitz."

Gov. Williams asked President Eisenhower to declare the Flint area, as well as other Michigan communities, "disaster" areas.

The American Red Cross, in Washington, allocated $100,000 for relief.

Flint was a sorrowful town this morning. Relatives trooped through the National Guard Armory which had been converted into a temporary morgue looking for wives, children, and parents.

Flint city officials feared the death toll would go much higher. Nurses and doctors and ambulances came from cities across the lower portion of Michigan. When hospitals ran out of bed space, the injured were placed on floors of the corridors.

Tragedy struck in many forms in the wake of the twisters.

Arnold Anschuetz, a Highland Park, Mich., fireman, his wife and two sons were vacationing near Tawas. The twister claimed all four lives.

At Erie, Mich., a 33-year-old mother died protecting her 4-year-old son from the debris laden tornado winds.

Mrs. Vergeline Rush of Dearborn Township lay on top of her son, Dennis, as the tornado swept down a highway near Erie, dragging a huge semi-trailer with it.

She was crushed to death by the tumbling trailer, Dennis went to Monroe Hospital with a fractured skull.

The Erie twister turned over heavy trucks on U. S.-24 north of the Michigan-Ohio border. Two little girls, Carol Ann, 6, and Judith Winkler, 2, were found dead in a field 100 feet from their home.

The twin tornadoes which struck Northern Ohio struck hardest at Cygnet, O., in Wood County. Eight persons died in the town, located near Bowling Green. The twister there also destroyed homes and buildings and injured scores of residents.

Morgue at Armory
The National Guard Armory here was converted into a makeshift central morgue. At last count 96 bodies had been brought in. Priests and other clergymen administered last rites.

Plasmas Rushed
Center of destruction was Coldwater road, just outside of town. The twister leveled 40 houses in a double row in a residential area for auto factory workers. One family of four was wiped out there.

Gov. G. Mennen Williams rushed here to direct state agencies in their rescue and relief work.

The Red Cross rushed to set up relief shelters at Flint and Port Huron, the latter for the Lake-Port area injured.

A Navy plane was ordered into the air at Glenview (Ill.) Naval Air Station to fly 600 pounds of blood plasma and penicillin to the stricken Flint area.

Up until last night there had been 227 persons killed in 128 tornadoes this year. Property damage had been estimated at $146,000,000. Of the death toll, 141 were reported in 15 Texas tornadoes. A destructive series of twisters had swept through Nebraska only Sunday night.

California Assembly Bans Secret Meetings Of Government Bodies
SACRAMENTO, Calif. (P)—The California Assembly last night completed legislative action on a freedom of information bill which prohibits closed meetings of local governmental bodies.

The measure requires 24-hour notice to newspapers, radio and television stations of any special meeting. The provisions do not apply to state agencies.

The Assembly agreed to the Senate amendments and sent the bill to the governor for his expected signature.

Action Started
For Renewal Of
U.S. Tariff Act

By CHARLES F. BARRETT
WASHINGTON (P)—President Eisenhower's request for extension of the Reciprocal Trade Act, stalled for weeks in the House Ways and Means Committee, seemed certain to get a shove today.

The committee was called into session to vote on a compromise that represents a victory for the administration on the controversial issue.

Big the breaking of the log jam comes too late to prevent expiration of the present act, which dies on Friday. House leaders plan floor action on the one-year renewal next Monday.

The act gives the President power to negotiate lower tariffs on foreign goods coming into the U. S. in return for trade concessions to this country. None of the existing agreements will be affected if the law lapses.

The administration says it plans no new trade agreements. But Eisenhower urged an extension of the authority, as a symbol of his foreign policy goal of promoting free world trade. The administration said U. S. allies abroad would consider failure to renew the act as a return to isolationism.

Salen Is Low On School Project

Albert Salen of Menominee will be awarded the general construction contract for the Catholic Central High School in Escanaba, it was announced today by the Rev. Fr. O'Neil D'Amour, executive secretary of the Diocesan Board of Education.

Salen was the lowest of eight bidders.

Bids also have been received for plumbing, heating and ventilating, electrical work, roof deck and metal panel walls, asphalt and plastic tile, ceramic tile, accoustical work and pipe wrapping but these contracts will not be awarded until the bids are more completely analyzed. It is anticipated that the awards will be made at a meeting of the building committee Thursday night.

The total of the low bids on all contracts is approximately $715,000, or more than $100,000 under the estimates. However, the project cost including furnishings and equipment will be in excess of $1,000,000. Fr. D'Amour said.

The general construction bids follow: Albert Salen, Menominee, $398,750; Precourt Construction Co., Oshkosh, $406,000; Erling Arntzen, Escanaba, $407,980; Killen and Wille, Superior, Wis., $412,685; E. H. Meyer Construction Co., Neenah, Wis., $433,698; McDonald Construction Co., $453,744; Proksh Construction Co., Iron River, $458,685; and P. J. Nickel Co., Ironwood, $560,845.

Construction will get under way promptly, John Somerville, architect, Green Bay, reported this morning. A ground-breaking ceremony will be held Wednesday evening at 7, with the Most Rev. Bishop Thomas L. Noa blessing the ground and turning the first sod.

Leonard Bookbinder, of the Somerville firm, will be the resident architect supervisor of the project. The building will comprise 14 academic classrooms, library, home economics room, manual arts, biology laboratory, chemistry laboratory, cafeteria, music room, gymnasium and administrative office. The school will be ready for occupancy in the fall term of 1954.

Mrs. Wolfe was born September 7, 1881, in Rapid River, and lived in the Rapid River area all her life. She married Frank Wolfe December 15, 1925. Wolfe died September 28, 1945.

She was a member of St. Martin's Lutheran Church of Rapid River, and of the Ladies' Aid of that church.

Mrs. Wolfe's brother, Peter Schultz, died in 1948, her last surviving direct relative. She is survived by nieces and nephews.

The body has been taken to Kelley Funeral Home, Gladstone, where friends may call beginning Wednesday noon. Rev. Theophil Hoffmann will conduct funeral services at St. Martin's Church in Rapid River Thursday afternoon at 2. The body will be taken to the church an hour before the time of the funeral.

Elected to a full three-year term on the Bark River Board of Education was Clarence Hanchek, who polled 201 votes to defeat Carl J. Ahlin, 159 votes. Elected to a two-year term to fill a vacancy was Steve Shiverski, 201 votes. Shiverski's opponent, Mrs. Hildur Olson, received 146 votes.

All townships in the county had school board elections yesterday but most candidates were unopposed. In Wells, Earl Iverson was reelected to a three-year term. He was unopposed.

Telephone Rate Increase Asked

The Michigan Bell Telephone Company today asked for a general rate increase throughout its territory which would boost charges for residence service 25c to 90c a month in the Escanaba area.

In its application with the Public Service Commission at Lansing, the company also asked that individual-line business service rates here be raised 50c to $1.50 per month.

The company asked for no increase in long-distance rates.

Under the proposed schedules, monthly rates in Escanaba would be increased as follows:

Residence Service	Present Rate	Proposed Rate
Individual	$3.25	$4.15
Two-party	3.00	3.60
Four-party	2.50	3.20
Rural	3.25	3.50
Business Service	Present Rate	Proposed Rate
Individual	$6.75	$8.25
Two-party	5.75	6.75
Rural	4.75	5.25

George A. Marcouiller, manager here for Michigan Bell, termed the proposed rate increase "essential if we are to continue to maintain a high-quality service."

Pointing up the company's progress in expanding and improving telephone service at Escanaba, Marcouiller cited that more than $970,000 spent for construction by Michigan Bell here from 1946 through 1952.

82 Percent Now Have Phones

Further, he said, expansion and improvement projects scheduled for completion here this year will add another $153,000 to that sum, bringing total postwar expenditures by the company for expansion and improvement in the Escanaba exchange to over $1 million.

"As a result of our large construction program here," Marcouiller continued, "we have been able to serve an additional 2,000 residents over and above those we were serving in 1946."

"Eighty-two per cent of all the households in Escanaba now have telephone service."

"We have an annual payroll here amounting to $337,000 and in addition, we pay substantial amounts in coin box commissions to local merchants and into the local school system through the company's state tax which goes into the Primary School Fund. Michigan Bell is the largest single contributor to that fund."

Wage Bill Higher

"Despite many economies and the application of new developments in the telephone art, costs of providing service have increased rapidly. Rates have lagged far behind these rapidly-ascending costs."

"One substantial element of our costs is our wage bill. General wage increases, alone, since 1940, have amounted to $1.50 for every $1 of rate increase in the same period. During that period wage costs per telephone per month have jumped from $1.54 to $3.39. Further, taxes paid by the company per telephone have increased from 82 cents to $1.26 a month."

"In total, costs per telephone per month are now $6.45, as against $3.86 in 1940."

"In addition to higher taxes and wages, costs of materials which we use every day to provide telephone service have also increased rapidly. For example, poles have gone up from $12 to $27, copper wire from 16 cents a pound to 36 cents, and a 101-pair cable from 15 cents a foot to 28 cents a foot."

"As a result of this lag in the price of our service behind the increased costs of providing it, our earnings are about a third of the rate of earnings of outside industry during a period when business activity has been at an all-time high."

Rates at Bark River, Rapid River, and Cornell would be increased the same as in Escanaba.

At Rock and Perkins, rates for residence service would be increased as follows: individual-line, $3.25 to $3.70; four-party, $2.50 to $3; rural, $3 to $3.25. Individual-line business service, $5.75 to $6.75; two-party, $4.75 to $5.75; rural, $4 to $4.50.

Gayeff Advises City To Quit Electric Business

Todd Gayeff, electrical engineer and manager of the AEG Electric Company, Escanaba, believes the city should "get out of the electric business" and solve its electric power problem by buying from an un-named private power source.

"We should go out and invite the private electric companies to come in here," he told the Escanaba Rotary Club at its meeting yesterday noon at the Delta Hotel.

Gayeff said the electric load here has almost doubled itself in the last five years, and he predicted the consumption of electric power would be doubled within the next 10 years.

Consider Solutions

The speaker presented three possible solutions for consideration:

1—Construction by the city of a municipal power plant.

2—Joining with the Alger-Delta Cooperative Electric Association in a power plant financed by an REA loan.

3—"Invitation of an outside electric power generating industrialist to take over."

Gayeff said the city's claim that it is "making money" with its distribution and sale of electric power "is a supercilious fallacy."

"Assuming a four million dollar capital investment (for construction of a power plant), the city will be losing $265,000 a year if present rates, which are high enough, are kept. To offset this the city has to increase its rates about 30 per cent," Gayeff said.

(Editor's note: The city now owns and operates its electric distribution system, purchasing the power wholesale from the Upper Michigan Power & Light Company, subsidiary of the Mead Corporation.)

Opposed to REA

Gayeff described proponents of the REA loan plan of financing construction of a power plant to serve the county area and the cities of Escanaba and Gladstone as "shadow boxing."

It would only temporarily alleviate the power shortage for the cities, who would receive only "surplus" current generated within the next 10 years.

"REA has its growing pains like everybody else. Its 'surplus' will not be sufficient to meet its own demands in 10 years," Gayeff predicted.

He described the electric power industry as "a servant of free society not a tool to a master government."

Should Invite Supplier

Gayeff was outspoken in favoring an invitation to some private interest to come to Escanaba and build a power plant.

"I know that such an industrialist can be induced to undertake the supply of electricity to us in retail at our present meter rates," Gayeff added.

The city would benefit by having the electric utility pay taxes; power would be available for the area for immediate needs and estimated future needs.

Gayeff spoke of a "local burden of taxation" which would become a legacy of the children should the community fail to fall in step "with national economic progress."

United Nations Gained World Strength By The War In Korea

PEACE in Korea! It may be a matter of days before the armistice is formally signed but for all practical purposes the war in Korea is already ended.

The Korean war has been a strange war from the American viewpoint, strange because it was a war in which we were forced to keep at least one hand tied behind our back. It finally settled down to a war in which total victory for either side became an impossibility.

And yet the outcome of the Korean war is in a very real sense a satisfying victory for the United Nations and for the United States which played the leading role in the war. It was a war which halted Communist aggression and convinced the Russians that the West could fight to contain the Communist threat.

The armistice terms in Korea are primarily the terms demanded by the United Nations, particularly on the main issue of prisoner repatriation. The war ends with the Communists having completely failed to achieve its original objective, the conquest of South Korea.

There is, of course, a sad note in the result—the failure to unify Korea. This may be accomplished at some later date through peaceful negotiations but the prospects are far from bright. Unification did not exist before the outbreak of the war in 1950, however and it was not the main objective of the UN forces. The principal objective was to prevent the Communist-dominated North Koreans from swallowing South Korea. That has been accomplished in its entirety under the terms of the truce.

The United Nations as an effective force for world peace has gained tremendous stature as a result of the Korean war. As a matter of truth, if the UN had not fought back against the Communist aggression in Korea, the United Nations would have been destroyed. Korea was the big test and the world organization has come through it with new strength.

Trade Restrictions Must Be Lowered

THOUGH some sniping from die-hard lawmakers may yet occur, President Eisenhower appears now to have won a victory in Congress for a simple one-year extension of the reciprocal trade agreements act.

The assurance of this triumph was signaled when Rep. Richard M. Simpson, a high-tariff Republican on the House Ways and Means Committee, agreed to introduce an administration bill to accomplish the renewal.

Simpson is author of another bill which would have extended the law for a year but would have given the Tariff Commission final power over rates, raised tariffs on zinc and lead, curbed imports of fuel oil, and otherwise restricted the President's existing authority over trade.

His switch does not indicate he and other opponents of freer trade have abandoned the fight. They merely have put it off awhile, pending study by a bipartisan commission—requested by Mr. Eisenhower—of the nation's entire foreign economic policy.

The administration measure does contain two changes. One would enlarge the Tariff Commission from six to seven members, making possible a 4-3 Republican majority. But basically it is the bill the President desires.

Nevertheless, in fairness it must be pointed out that his victory is not a great one. It is negative, preventing for the time being action which could cripple his discretionary powers and the reciprocal trade program built up under those powers. It merely preserves the status quo.

In fact, there is evidence that the President won his point this time by virtually assuring the combating lawmakers there would be no striking trade concessions in the next year.

All this makes clear that no genuine headway is being made toward substantial tariff reduction to encourage wider trade with Europe and a lessened European dependence upon United States financial assistance.

In the meantime, the support in this country for just such a broader foreign trade goes on growing steadily. The Chamber of Commerce of the United States, the National Association of Manufacturers and the U. S. Council of the International Chamber of Commerce, all have spoken forcefully for lower trade barriers. It would be hard to imagine a more representative cross section of American business.

These organizations, and many others, have come at varying speeds and with varying degrees of enthusiasm to the hard realization that America cannot have its cake and eat it, too. It cannot shed the burdens of European dependency while barring Europe from American markets where it must sell to gain economic self-reliance.

Mr. Eisenhower has scored a modest victory. He needs a much bigger one to put a really rosy glow around the free world's economic picture.

Questions and Answers

By Congressional Quarterly
Q—Who tries and punishes American soldiers who get into trouble with the local law in NATO countries?

A—Under agreements among NATO countries, officials in countries where servicemen are stationed bring to trial and punish those accused of civilian law violations while off duty. The proposed NATO Status of Forces treaty would confirm this arrangement, but Sen. John W. Bricker (R-Ohio) has introduced a treaty reservation to require member nations to turn servicemen over to home-country forces for court-martial.

Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Topping the list of high-powered, high-paid lobbyists, in a city swarming with lobbyists, is the National Association of Electric Companies. According to the official records on file with congress, this group of private utility companies spent a total of $477,941.74 last year trying to influence congress.

And up until last month it was handsomely paying off.

Not only did the house appropriations committee knock out the 1956 reclamation law provision, inserted under Teddy Roosevelt, whereby cities, cooperatives and public organizations have first call on federal power, but they chopped $119,000,000 out of the Interior Department's budget for building dams and power lines.

"Our plan," confided one utility lobbyist to a senator, "is to cripple Rural Electrification and the farms co-ops without actually putting them out of business all at once. Then when their service deteriorates, the private power companies will go around and get the farmers to sign petitions asking that the co-ops be turned over to private enterprise."

A few days ago, the electric utility lobby scored its biggest triumph—though it may have overplayed its hand.

It persuaded its good friend genial Secretary of the Interior Douglas McKay to send out to Bonneville Dam a new contract by which all power from that huge government-built operation is turned over to nine private utilities with the co-ops and municipalities pretty much left out in the cold.

GENEROUS MCKAY

The model contract McKay sent to Oregon applies to the Portland General Electric Company, though eight other utilities blanketing the northwest are to get similar contracts.

Section 4 (B) of the contract which the ex-Governor of Oregon, now Secretary of the Interior, handed the utilities on a silver platter not only gives them an option on all power produced by the Bonneville system, but provides that no new contracts shall be left to new industry until the option to the utilities is met.

Section 3 (B) of the contract also provides that in direct contradiction to the 50-year-old law laid down under Teddy Roosevelt, Bonneville will not sell power to any municipalities, co-ops or publicly owned utility districts for resale where such resale will increase the power taken by these public bodies more than 100,000 kilowatts a year.

There are various other new provisions in the new contract. Instead of fixing rates on its own power, as the government does today, the new contract merely permits rate negotiation with the utilities. If the negotiations are not successful, the government can only serve a four-year notice of cancellation, then after four years appeal to the courts.

In other words, what the new McKay contract boils down to is that the U. S. taxpayers generate the power, turn it over to nine private utilities, let the utilities decide who shall get the power, what they shall charge for the power, while the taxpayers surrender most of their right to fix rates on the power which they generate.

INDUSTRY PROTESTS

Probably if the electric lobby hadn't been so avaricious they could have got away with it. But the terms of the new contract were so avaricious that they backfired. And the backlash has come from big business, chiefly Republican.

When Bonneville Administrator Paul Raver received a copy of this new contract from Washington, he called a meeting June 1 of big industries using Bonneville power. They included such powerful outfits as Mellon's Aluminum Corporation of America, the Carborundum Co., Pacific Carbide and Alloys, Henry Kaiser's Aluminum Co., which operates three units in that area, and Reynolds Metals, which operates two units, plus half a dozen others. Hanna Nickel and Smelting Co., owned by new Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey, was also invited, but didn't attend.

Industry representatives listened in stunned silence as Bonneville Administrator Raver defended the new contract. They had already received copies and knew that the contract gave the utilities absolute veto on what new industries could be started in the Northwest. It also gave private utilities the veto over whether Alcoa, Reynolds, Kaiser, et al could expand their factories. If the utilities refused them power, they were out of luck.

However, Administrator Raver also explained that the new contract went further. The utilities would handle future rates to industry. The cheap rates of government operation would be no more.

Only a few industry representatives at the meeting protested. Norman Krey, representative of Kaiser, pointed out that the new contract would prevent industries which have spent millions getting started in the Northwest from making their normal expansion. Also, he said, the contract would prevent industries in the Northwest from firming up their future sources of electric power.

Bombs Tossed In Tunis Cafes, Rifles Hidden In Arab Cloaks

By FRED SPARKS
NEA Staff Correspondent
TUNIS, French North Africa (NEA)—Noted while smoking a water pipe, which is passed around the table, mouth to mouth, like an Indian pipe of peace:

A fat Pasha, wearing gay robes and a blue turban, steps out of fancy horse-drawn carriage to warmly greet a lovely (in dark glasses) whose Paris pattern clings to her curves like a court plaster . . . A jeep load of helmeted coppers slowly tools down main stem warning terrorists, who regularly pitch bombs into pro-French cafes, upsetting glasses and generally reducing trade . . .

Visiting American sailors trying to guess the age of veiled women by looking at their exposed eyes; natives guess by their walk . . . Other sailors hire Arab "sheets" to sneak into "off limits" Casbah after dark . . . Arab men stroll together holding hands; quite proper here . . .

Restaurants empty (through June 15) during daylight hours as this is holy fasting Moslem month of Ramadan . . . No good follower of Allah dare take on chow, water or cigarettes while sun shines . . . A camel caravan stops for the night, pitches tents stenciled: "U. S. Army—First Infantry Division" . . . Won at war surplus sales . . . French ban Tunisian Boy Scouts, say kiddies are "front" for Nationalist propaganda . . .

Soft shoulder! Almost daily, camels, donkeys and desert travelers step on World War II mines, planted along Rommel's retreat route, and are blasted to bits.

Nationalists carefully comb for mines and other discarded weapons. The powder is siphoned off for home made bombs to horrify French supporters. Rifle and carbine barrels are cut down (like Capone's sawed-off shotguns) and concealed under Arab cloaks.

Today's Thought: Are long forgotten World War II shooting irons providing the arsenal for World War III?

Biography on the back of a menu: His Royal Highness, Sidi Mohammed Pacha, the Bey (Chief) of Tunis. (His wife: "Beya.")

Technically HRH is King of Tunisia. Practically he's a French prisoner in a cocoanut custard palace next to the ruins of ancient Carthage.

The Bey is mad for medicine, poetry, watches. With a private intake of maybe $1,000,000 yearly, his palace houses six doctors, two poets and a thousand watches, many diamond decorated.

The Bey gleefully injects various serums into two favorite dwarfs, hired to make jokes like clowns in a 10th Century monarch's court. Whenever the Bey visits another of his many castles, a bull is sacrificed on the doorstep—despite the high cost of steak.

The French would drip crocodile tears if Bey would drop dead, Merce, because he doesn't dance the Paris political polka, wants independence for Tunisia, and all power for the Bey.

Four things I like about Tunis: How thrifty white collar Arabs carry their shoes to work, only put on same before entering offices.

How fanatically anti-Red are

1. A quarter of Tunis, sunlight filters through gaps in arcade roofs. At night, visiting sailors hire Arab "sheets" to sneak into "off limit" quarters.

colonial French. They insist: "If Communism ever handcuffs Paris we'll cut clean."

How many Arab war wails, now of voting age, remember fondly GI friendships. One showed me a snapshot of Kansas slogger who died at Gafsa: "He bought me warm clothes."

To send this summer's American tourists home with the happy thought that they have heard nature's own coloratura soprano, International Business Machines has come to the rescue.

IBM, whose London offices front on Berkeley Square, has recorded the song of a real nightingale on a gimmick concealed in a street clock at the corner of the square. The warbler is heard from dusk to midnight in 10-minute song bursts via the wire recorder.

Just so the thing won't look too phony, a Japanese nightingale born in captivity (it is il-

Good Evening...

THE QUESTION—When is a driver drunk and when is he not drunk?

That is a question, indeed, and the answer appears to rest with the jurors who have the sometimes difficult task of weighing the evidence and arriving at a verdict.

The charge in such cases is phrased thusly: That Joe Blow is charged with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicants, contrary to state statute, etc.

You will note that Joe is not charged with having too many beers, or too much whisky, or wine or any particular color or vintage of alcoholic beverage.

The word intoxicants covers a multitude of pain-killers, including such items as opiates, drugs, and so forth as well as alcoholic drinks. And in the eyes of the law it is equally wrong to be under the influence of too many shots of heroin as it is to be under the influence of too many shots of whisky.

JUST HOW DRUNK—Jurors have difficulty trying to decide how much drinking can be done before a car driver is plastered, stewed, slopped up, under, or intoxicated.

But they do agree that the drunk driver should better have stayed behind the bar instead of climbing behind the wheel of his auto. For he is a potential killer.

"The intoxicated motorist is a dangerous menace to the public," said Prosecutor Nicholas P. Chapekis. "If the public could only recognize this, they would call him the worst public menace we have."

Highways are dangerous enough for folks who have all their wits about them. They become increasingly dangerous when the men and women with too much to drink try to drive. They are a menace to themselves and to all others on the road.

MAKING THE TEST—If the private citizens who are called to jury duty would face up to their responsibilities in drunk driving cases the outcome might be somewhat more encouraging for the forces of law and order.

One of the aids to convince juries that a driver was drunk as charged is to present in court the laboratory report of blood samples taken at the time of arrest.

These samples, now sent to Lansing, reveal the percentage of alcohol in the blood and the degrees of intoxication. Equipment for testing the samples could be purchased at a cost of $50 or $60 and a local doctor has offered to make the reports, Prosecutor Chapekis told me.

Michigan supreme court has admitted the blood sample reports as evidence and there is now no question of its being admitted in lower courts—but the whole program is entirely voluntary and the individual under arrest can refuse to submit to blood sampling.

TRUE OR FALSE—The testimony of witnesses, including the arresting officers and others, is sometimes brushed aside by juries in considering the degree of intoxication of the defendant.

"I just had a couple beers," says the defendant indignantly.

Others claim to be "under the care of the doctor" and receiving drugs. This is really no excuse, you understand, for the doctor always warns his patients if they are receiving drugs that would make them less alert as drivers. But it sounds good to the jury intent on finding some excuse for acquittal.

The reports on the blood samples meet with rough treatment by the defense. If the driver consented to having a blood sample taken his counsel questions in court the meaning and accuracy of the report.

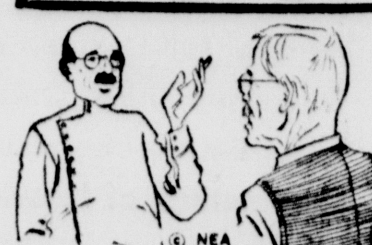

Should the accused drunk driver have refused to permit a blood sample, the defense ardently suggests to the jury that if one had been taken it would have proved the driver innocent!

Such circumstances require a prosecutor with patience and determination; law enforcement officers trained to assemble the information the prosecution needs; and juries capable of understanding their responsibilities as citizens.

Before they run short, most people will be glad that they saved enough for their vacation.

A man who sold peanuts and popcorn for 25 years has retired. We hope he also salted a fortune.

The Doctor Says...

Wash Two or Three Times After Poison Ivy Contact

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M. D. — Written for NEA Service

A correspondent writes that she has been afflicted with poison ivy at least once a year ever since she has been in the United States for the past 15 years. I might say that being afflicted with poison ivy is not restricted to those who have come from elsewhere; many native-born, who frequently should know better, got into the same trouble.

Poison ivy grows only in North America from Canada to Mexico. It is entirely absent from other parts of the world. There is no poison ivy season, as the stalk is dangerous in winter even when the leaves are not growing. In summer, however, more people are out of doors and hence more likely to be exposed to this poisonous skin irritant.

Thousands of people develop a blistering irritation of the skin every year, either through pure carelessness or because they do not know enough to recognize poison ivy when they see it. It has been estimated that 350,000 people get into trouble with poison ivy each year and that the total time lost is in the neighborhood of 600,000 days.

Everyone should learn to recognize the three-pointed leaves of poison ivy, since much of the trouble comes from failure to know them. Some people are more sensitive to this poisoning of the skin than others, but anyone may fall a victim.

I have heard people boast that they never get poison ivy. Sooner or later if they continue to expose themselves they usually regret this boast. It is well known that people who have seemed safe for a great many years may come down when they least expect it.

On the other hand, a few people are extremely sensitive to poison ivy and can develop symptoms even if they stand in the smoke from a fire in which poison ivy is being burned. This is because the smoke particles carry tiny droplets of the oil from poison ivy.

NO QUICK CURE

There is no sure, quick cure for ivy poisoning. Several preparations which can be put on the skin are helpful. The best policy to follow is to avoid the ivy plants.

If a person should come in contact with a plant and know it, thorough washing with soap and water two or three times should be carried out, followed by rinsing carefully after each wash. Many cases are serious enough to require a doctor's care.

Charter Revision:

Set Hearing June 16 For General Finance Section

The Escanaba Charter Revision Commission has completed preliminary draft on three sections of the proposed new city charter. These sections—general finance, special assessment, taxation—will be presented for public hearing to be held in City Hall at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday, June 16.

One of the three sections follows:

GENERAL FINANCE

FISCAL YEAR:
Section 8.1. The fiscal year of the city and of all its accounts shall begin on the first day of July of each year and end on the thirtieth day of June of the following year.

BUDGET PROCEDURES:

Section 8.2. The City Manager shall prepare and submit to the Council on the fourth Monday in April, 1954 and in each year thereafter a tentative budget covering the next fiscal year, and shall include therein at least the following information:

(a) Detailed estimates with supporting explanations of all proposed expenditures for each department, board, commission, utility and agency of the city, showing the expenditures for corresponding items for the last preceding fiscal year in full, and for the current fiscal year to January first, and estimated expenditures for the balance of the current fiscal year.

(b) Statements of the bonded and other indebtedness of the city showing the debt redemption and interest requirements, the debt authorized and unissued, and the condition of the sinking funds, if any.

(c) Detailed estimates of all anticipated revenues of the city from sources other than taxes with a comparative statement of the amounts received by the city from each of the same or similar sources for the last preceding fiscal year in full, and for the current fiscal year to January first, and estimated revenues for the balance of the current fiscal year.

(d) An estimate of the amount of money to be raised from current and delinquent taxes and the amount to be raised from bond issues which, together with any available unappropriated surplus and any revenues from other sources, will be necessary to meet the proposed expenditures.

(e) Such other supporting information as the Council may request.

SCHEDULE OF CAPITAL OUTLAY:

Section 8.3. Simultaneously with his tentative budget, the City Manager shall submit to the Council a schedule showing all proposed capital outlay expenditures during the following six fiscal years. The City Manager shall prepare this schedule after consultation with the City Planning Commission. This schedule shall list separately each proposed acquisition of capital equipment or facility and each proposed capital expenditure program with estimates of cost as accurate as may be made without detailed plans and specifications. This schedule shall be for the guidance of the Council in adoption of the regular annual budget and the Council may delete items or make such revision as is deemed appropriate and may arrange items in the order of priority for acquisition or construction. After making any desired corrections or additions, the Council shall adopt the capital outlay program at the same meeting as it adopts the regular annual budget, but such adoption shall be only for the purpose of setting up a guide for future capital expenditures and in no way shall obligate the city to carry out the programs listed nor to include any of the items in future budgets nor to appropriate funds for any of the items or programs. In the preparation of the annual budget, neither the City Manager nor the Council shall include or appropriate funds for any capital expenditure unless the item was included in the capital outlay program adopted the previous year or is included in the capital outlay program submitted with the budget.

PROPOSED BUDGET:
Section 8.4. Based upon the tentative budget and schedule of proposed capital outlay submitted by the City Manager, the Council shall, on or before the second Monday in May in 1954 and in each year thereafter, draw up a proposed budget and summary thereof for publication under the provisions of Section 8.5.

BUDGET HEARING:

Section 8.5. A public hearing on the proposed budget shall be held before its final adoption at such time and place as the Council shall direct. Notice of such public hearing, a summary of the proposed budget and notice that the proposed budget is on file in the office of the Clerk shall be published at least one week in advance of the hearing. The complete proposed budget shall be on file for public inspection during office hours at such office for a period of not less than one week prior to such hearing.

ADOPTION OF BUDGET:

Section 8.6. Not later than the fourth Monday in May in 1954 and in each year thereafter, the Council shall by resolution adopt a budget for the next fiscal year, shall appropriate the money needed for municipal purposes during such year and shall provide for a levy of the amount necessary to be raised by taxes upon real and personal property for municipal purposes subject to the limitations contained in Section 9.1.

Appropriations to a contingency fund or to any other similar fund which is not for a specific purpose or purposes shall not exceed an amount which is reasonably necessary to provide for unforeseeable contingencies but in no case over four percent of the total amount of the appropriations for all purposes. No allowance shall be made in the contingency fund for any estimated expenditure which can logically be included in a specific budget account.

BUDGET CONTROL:

Section 8.7. Except for purposes which are to be financed by the issuance of bonds or by special assessment, or for other purposes not chargeable to a budget appropriation, no money shall be drawn from the treasury of the city except in accordance with an appropriation therefor for such specific purpose, nor shall any obligation for the expenditure of money be incurred without an appropriation covering all payments which will be due under such obligation in the current fiscal year. The Council by resolution may transfer any unencumbered appropriation balance, or any portion thereof from one account, department, fund or agency to another.

The Council may make additional appropriations during the fiscal year for unanticipated expenditures required of the city, but such additional appropriations shall not exceed the amount by which actual and anticipated revenues of the year exceed the revenues as estimated in the budget unless the appropriations are necessary to relieve an emergency endangering the public health, peace or safety.

Except in those cases where there is no other logical account to which an expenditure can be charged, expenditures shall not be charged directly to the contingency fund (or other similar fund). Instead, the necessary part of the appropriation for the contingency fund (or other similar fund) shall be transferred to the logical account and the expenditure then charged to such account.

At the beginning of each quarterly period during the fiscal year, and more often if required by the Council, the City Manager shall submit to the Council data showing the relation between the estimated and actual revenues and expenditures to date; and if it shall appear that the revenues are less than anticipated, the Council may reduce appropriations, except amounts required for debt and interest charges, to such a degree as may be necessary to keep expenditures within the revenues.

The balance in any budget appropriation which has not been encumbered at the end of the fiscal year shall revert to the general fund.

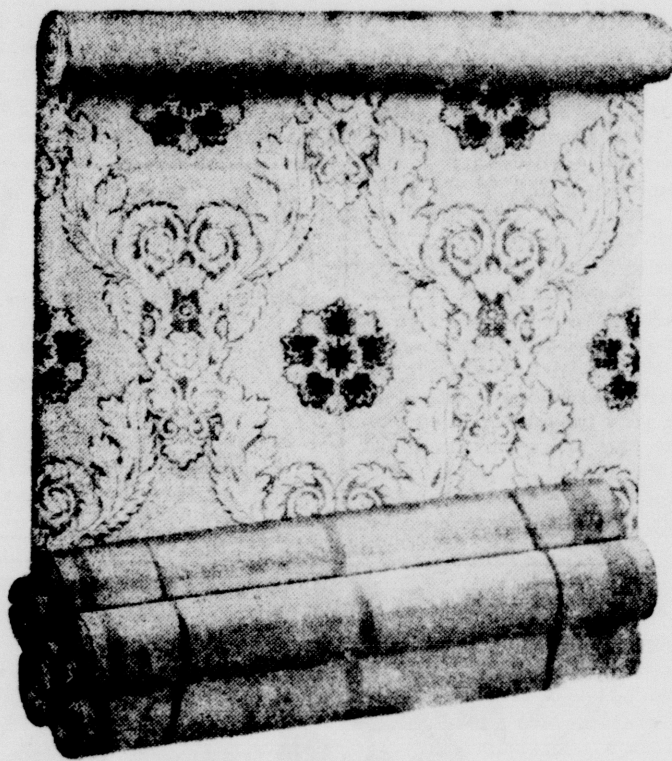

DEPOSITORY:

Section 8.8. The Council shall designate depositories for city funds and shall provide for the regular deposit of all city moneys. The Council shall provide for such security for city deposits as is authorized or permitted by statute except that personal surety bonds shall not be deemed proper security.

INDEPENDENT AUDIT: ANNUAL REPORT:
Section 8.9. An independent audit shall be made of all city accounts at least annually, and more frequently if deemed necessary by the Council. Such audit shall be made by Certified Public Accountants experienced in municipal accounting to be selected by the Council without regard to any requirements for competitive bidding. Such audit shall be available for public inspection at the office of the City Clerk.

The City Manager shall prepare an annual report of the affairs of the city after completion of the annual audit. The report shall include financial statements showing the results of all city operations including operating statements for each public utility owned or operated by the city. Copies of such report, after approval by the Council, shall be made available for public inspection and distribution at the office of the Clerk.

Details Of Prison Break Told By Captured Convict

MENOMINEE—Shortly after 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon Charles Morrison was captured near the Four Seasons Club in Marinette County and officers learned first hand for the first time what had happened to the four who had eluded capture since breaking from Marquette Prison on May 22. Three other fugitives were taken early.

This is Morrison's own story, as told to Michigan State Police Detective Sergeant Anthony Spratto and Detective George Strong, who were in on the capture, and Capt. Thor Person, U. P. commandant, all of Marquette, at the Marinette County jail.

"I didn't do the cutting with the torch in the break. I'd like to have, but they knew I was an acetylene welder and they never let me near the stuff. They put me as far away from my trade as they could. I was in the prison paint shop.

"We all figured to break together, but we had no plans beyond that. It was every man for himself."

Question: "Is that why you let the older guys go?"

"Yes."

"Even later I kept telling 'em we ought to split up."

Camp By Tavern

"We camped in that little woods by the (Idle Hour) Tavern (at Yalmer near Skandia Township Marquette County) because we thought, that if they were going to drive the woods they wouldn't bother with a little patch like that. We could see pretty well what was going on at the tavern. It rained every other day and we were wet all the time; we never got dry. There was no dry wood to build a fire and anyway we were afraid that if we made a smoke they might see it from a fire tower. After we robbed the tavern (Sunday, May 31) we had some candy bars to eat. Once we ate a muskrat. We stayed away from places. We never tried to buy any food. (They had been reported at a Perronville farm trying to buy eggs.) When I was caught I hadn't eaten for four days. (Enroute to Marinette he ate most of a loaf of bread, two pounds of cold meat, two pounds of cheese the state policemen had for lunches, and drank two quarts of water.)

"We stole a Ford and it quit on us; maybe it shorted out on the dash. (This was the car of Theodore McMaster, taken at Yalmer.) At the Lakeside Tavern we stole a Buick (owned by Edwin Peura of Deerton). The tavern is at Deerton on M-28 east of Marquette.) We filled some gas tanks at a farm. We had a handful of picklocks with us and we opened the lock on the pump as easy as if we had the key. We jumped the wires on the ignition of the Buick to start it; just like the Ford.

"I don't know what road we took south. Our only idea was to get out of the state. Russell had done it before up by the Soo (after escape from an Ohio penitentiary) and it was his idea to lay low in the woods until things weren't so hot. The road we came down was part blacktop and part gravel; pretty good gravel.

"We went around the State Police Post at Three Rivers or Gladstone . . ."

Interrogator: "Three Rivers is in the Lower Peninsula!"

"Oh, yeah, that was Gladstone."

"We were behind a trooper riding side-saddle (along in a patrol car) at one time. I turned off and went around the block."

Tried Radio

"When I came up over a hill and saw two cars with red lights flashing I made a right turn that had that old Buick squealing. There were several cars ahead of us. (The blockade was between Gladstone and Escanaba.) I turned into some cabins (the Kozy Kabins) and went on but the road dead-ended and we had to quit the car. We skirted around Escanaba. We didn't go near anybody or anything. We never saw a newspaper after we broke prison.

We were on the (Soo Line) railroad tracks outside Escanaba

X-Ray Unit Will Move To Escanaba Starting Wednesday

The Michigan Department of Health x-ray unit will move to the city of Escanaba tomorrow for a three-day stay, after completing an all-day session at Groove and a two-day stop in Gladstone.

At Gladstone a total of 1,165 persons received free chest x-rays in two days. The x-rays are painless and completed in a few minutes. There is no need to disrobe.

Anyone over 15 years of age can avail himself of the service. The schedule of the x-ray units here this week is as follows:

June 10 and 11—Escanaba (Home Supply) 10 a. m. to 5 p. m. each day.

June 12—Escanaba, two x-ray units: Home Supply, 1 to 8 p. m.; Nash Garage, 1 to 8 p. m.

and Russell wanted us to hit into a swamp and hide and we wanted to walk the tracks; we'd had enough of the swamps. 'You dumb x x x; you'll all get caught,' Russell told us.

We had a fight there by the tracks and Russell hit off into the swamp on the right; that would be to the north, and we went down the railroad, walking in the brush along the tracks. I had to get rid of my oxfords, they had crepe rubber soles and they burnt my feet. My feet were in tough shape. I had my laces open to ease them and my ankles were swollen and it hurt to walk. In an old barn outside of Escanaba I found a pair of boots (lumbermen's rubbers with leather tops, the ones that made the treads in tracks found after the getaway below the Nathan bridge) and a pair of pants and a jacket. The boots hurt me, too, and Red McDowell had a jackknife and he cut out the heels for me so they wouldn't hurt so much. (Morrison's feet were caloused, blistered, swollen, peeling and obviously painful; he walked with a heavy limp when caught.)

"That was the last we saw of Russell. We walked to Hermansville. We never tried to flip a train after the break. We watched 'em shake down one train. The rifle that was found in the car was gotten by McDowell. He took some money and went off one day and came back with it. I think maybe he bought it. (No gun like the 30-30 Marline carbine found in the car that crashed the Nathan bridge has been reported stolen.)

Ducks and Crashes

"At Hermansville we stole the Kaiser (owned by Edward La-maude). We wanted to get out of Michigan. Red McDowell had had a map since we made the break. We stayed in an old brickyard at Hermansville. We were only there long enough to case the place and get the car. When we left Hermansville we were trying to get into Wisconsin. (He said they didn't try to cross at Faithorn.) When we ran into the blockade at the Nathan bridge we didn't even know that the bridge was there. I was driving. I ducked for shelter in case they fired into the car. I thought the bridge was wider than it is (only 16 feet) and there was a lot of play in the wheel of the car. Whoever owned it must have beat the hell out of it. I thought I was clear of the bridge, but I hit it and the next thing I knew we were in the river. I thought it was just a creek there, but the way the water came into the car it was lucky that we got out alive.

"I was the last one out. McDowell with me and he had the rifle. McDowell was sitting in the front and McMackin was sitting in the back seat. When I got out I tried to swim to the bridge (only 12 feet or so from the submerged car) but I couldn't make it against that fast current and I turned around and went down stream. I went quite a ways. I was lucky to make the bank. I damned near drowned and I'm the best swimmer of all of us, I think. I don't think that Russell can swim at all and McMackin and McDowell weren't in as good shape as I was. (He was the one that the troopers on the bridge saw go farthest downstream.)

"I never saw McMackin or McDowell after we hit the river. If I had come on them we would likely have teamed up again. When I made shore I started running. I ran till I hit a right-of-way and I run down that. I hid in a swamp when day came and I stayed there. I saw the search planes go over several times. I didn't see anybody, but I saw searchers on the roads at other times.

"I wished later that I had taken a log to cross the river at night but I didn't; I just struck out. I damned near didn't make it. I damned near drowned.

"I was the one who broke the window in the Ford near the Four Seasons Club last (Saturday) night (owned by Charles Hermann). I wasn't trying to steal it, I was looking for a blanket and food. And I pushed a Chevrolet to ways to search it for a blanket or food; I wasn't trying to steal it. (The Chevrolet was owned by Jack Ivers. Both were cottagers at the Four Seasons Club. Mrs. Melvin Krantz, living two miles from the club, reported Saturday night that a man attempted to steal her car. He was seen running across a field.)

"Today (Sunday) I had to hit the road. I had to keep moving because the mosquitoes were after me and I had wood ticks all over me. I had to keep moving.

"When a car came along with a man and his wife and a little girl in it I ducked into the brush. I hoped that they would think that it was a deer that they'd seen, if they saw me."

Joseph Fisher of Pembine, riding with his family, saw it was a man, not a deer, suspected it was one of the prison fugitives being sought in the area and hurried to the blockade at the Nathan bridge. There he found Menominee County Deputy Sheriff Andrew Vescolani, Hermansville, and Edmond Hanna, Faithorn; Conservation Officer John Shemky of Crystal Falls; Detective Sergeant Spratto, Detective Strong and Troopers Robert Dufort, Raymond Rudman and William Teddy of Marquette.

Shot Is Signal

The officers hurried to the place where Fisher had sighted the suspect. Vescolani communicating with the Marinette sheriff's office by his two-way radio. Shemky, Spratto and Dufort went into the woods while the others mounted guard and it was agreed that if the fugitive was sighted a shot would be fired. The searchers hadn't gone into the woods far before a trail was discernible and hadn't gone over 100 yards before Shemky fired. He had sighted the fugitive, who fell to the ground at the shot and tried to hide. He was not armed and offered no resistance to the officers. He was stripped to assure that he was not hiding any weapon then reclothed in his boots, brown pants, blue sweatshirt and brown jacket. He was taken to the Marinette jail to be held for transfer back to Marquette Prison. He was taken on the 16th day after his escape from the prison.

Morrison is a husky, hairy, virile, determined, ingenious, venturesome man of 31 with dark hair, bold nose and widow's peak. Sentenced from Lansing for armed robbery he was obviously a leader of the fugitives, as is shown by his driving of their cars.

Glad It's Over?

"I tried to get away right up to the last," he said. He was at that time obviously weakened by loss of food, sleep and rest, wearied by long exposure, pained by his tortured feet and his morale had been lowered by the harassment by wilderness insects and tension of more than two weeks of being hunted.

He was asked by a State Policeman if he was glad it was over.

"Yeah, I guess so," he said. "I couldn't have stuck it much longer."

Morrison thinks his fellow fugitives have separated.

All had razors with them when they broke prison. An unshaven man would excite suspicion in a search area. They had toothpaste and vasoline with them, taken when they broke. There were three prison jackets in the stolen car that crashed the Nathan bridge. Also an Army jacket. How that Army jacket got there Morrison said he didn't know.

THE MILWAUKEE ROAD

Felon Returned To Marquette

MARQUETTE, Mich. (AP)—Footsore and weary, Charles Morrison, 31, the fourth of seven fugitives from Marquette State Prison to be captured, was back in the prison today.

Morrison waived extradition before County Judge William Haase at Marinette, Wis., Monday, and three Michigan state policemen escorted him back to the tough northern branch prison where he and seven others, including three still at large, escaped May 22.

He surrendered meekly to two Michigan state troopers and a Wisconsin conservation officer Sunday, after he was spotted by a motorist on the Wisconsin side of the Menominee River near Pembine, Wis.

Morrison's body was covered with insect bites. He told police that he had not eaten in four days.

The tired convict told police that John McDowell, 39, and Joseph McMackin, 35, were his companions in a stolen car when it crashed into a bridge abutment and the three fugitives managed to escape into the Menominee river.

McMackin, McDowell, and Lloyd Russell, 31, who separated from the others, are still at large.

Council To Confer On Parking Meters

Escanaba City Council will meet in special session at 10 a. m. Wednesday in City Hall on call of Mayor Robert E. LeMire to discuss the problem of parking meter zones.

Previously the Council appeared to be in agreement on method of locating loading zones in metered areas, with charges to be made on a fee basis. Auto service station driveways, because they are used by the public, were exempt from metered zone fee.

Today Walter Harmon, field engineer of the Park-O-Meter company, Ypsilanti, Mich., arrived in Escanaba to obtain the services of a local firm to install 576 parking meters on Ludington and adjacent streets and in the City Hall parking lot.

The installation is expected to be completed within two weeks. In previous discussion the Council indicated that courtesy warning tickets would be issued the first week to those who violated the new parking meter ordinance.

Report On Conference

Mrs. Beck in her conference with Mrs. Brackett said that there are very few Indian girls who go on to school but that every effort should be made to contact any girls who might wish to further their education.

The state chairman stressed a more active participation in Indian Affairs. In connection with a report by a member of Lewis Cass Chapter, that an Indian girl at Harris is interested in a nursing scholarship it was suggested that she be contacted before fall. It was stressed that if one girl could be assisted in her education it would serve as an incentive for others. Only three girls have taken advantage of the state fund provided for this purpose, Mrs. Beck said.

Voters' League Hears Panel On Foreign Trade And Aid

The Escanaba League of Women Voters at the season's final meeting at Carnegie Library last night listened to a panel on the problems of foreign trade and foreign aid. Mrs. Charles Gessner, League International Relations chairman, was in charge of the program. Mrs. Leonard Vader of the League and Mrs. Otto S. Hult of Gladstone, guest speaker, assisted her in presenting the material.

Mrs. Gessner opened the meeting and spoke on "The Case for Renewing the Reciprocal Trade Agreements". She stressed that "economic relations of nations are as important as political and military relations and that international trade is the driving force determining these economic relations". During a recounting of the history of tariff in the United States she pointed out that the Hull trade agreements act passed in 1934 (now known as the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act) has been extended seven times and is the one which is now before Congress for renewal.

President Eisenhower has asked for the extension of the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act, due to expire June 12, without major change for one year. Rep. Simpson (R. N. Y.) has led a fight to amend the act, raising tariff, putting import quotas on certain products and packing the tariff commission with high tariff advocates and taking away the President's power to lower tariff rates. Under this act the United States has made trade agreements with 50 nations and in return for concessions, has reduced over 2,000 rates. It is estimated that 3 million Americans owe their jobs to the export market. Because we have not imported as much as exported, foreign countries have been unable to pay for the goods they need and want to buy from this country, she explained.

"Works Both Ways"

"World trade works both ways," Mrs. Gessner said. "If we do not buy, we cannot sell. If we do not import, we cannot export. Furthermore, when an American industry is protected by high tariff, the consumer pays in two ways—he pays high duty when he buys the article made abroad, but also pays a higher price for the one made at home, as there is less incentive for an industry to cut costs and sell cheaply if there is no competition." In conclusion she said, "The forces backing the administration in this fight do not propose free trade but FREER trade. There will always be tariffs and quotas to protect industries and prevent damage to our national economy."

Mrs. Leonard Vader spoke on "The Relationship between Foreign Trade and Foreign Aid". She said, "The problem is more than just one of lowering the tariff and closing the dollar gap. These are desirable and necessary steps for industrial nations who are knocking at our doors with goods to sell."

"But there are many nations that have nothing to trade and no money to pay us for the goods we have to trade," she pointed out. "The job of foreign aid should be to help these underdeveloped countries attain the knowledge, the training and the experience that will enable them to help themselves."

Aid is Important

"It is important that we aid these countries in achieving a higher standard of living because they are demanding something better than the grinding poverty they have always known," she continued. "If they should choose Communism as 'something better' it could be the deciding factor in the cold war." She stated that "we must not lose sight of the fact that free trade and technical aid are two pieces in the puzzle of how to achieve a world economy based on the pursuits of peace rather than the machines of war."

Mrs. Otto S. Hult of Gladstone presented "The Case for Productive Tariff". She expressed the view that low tariff on foreign products that can be made in America by American industries is unfair competition. The experience of a local industry making wooden bowls was cited. "Japanese bowls furnished the local industry with such stiff competition," Mrs. Hult stated, "that they were forced to quit making that particular item. Two local men lost their jobs and others were affected directly and indirectly, the suppliers of materials used in making the bowls and their workers, the grocers and the merchants, the workers traded with, etc." She pointed out that if this were multiplied by a number of like incidents in other industries it could become a serious problem.

Suggested Solution

"We cannot help other countries," Mrs. Hult said, "if our own industries are being dislocated and disrupted." The solution she suggested was a high tariff on those articles that are made in the United States on the production line and a low tariff on those handmade items that are typically French, or Italian, or British, etc., or a wage scale in other countries that is comparable to ours so that prices are the same and competition becomes one of the best product winning in a fair competition.

A movie "Who Cares" featuring Mrs. John G. Lee, National president of the League of Women Voters was shown. A coffee break followed the meeting.

The letter from national headquarters containing the official notice that the Escanaba League is full-fledged was read at the meeting by Mrs. James Fitzharris, local League president.

RHEUMATISM - ARTHRITIS SUFFERERS

REGARDLESS

OF HOW LONG YOU HAVE SUFFERED

O-JIB-WA BITTERS IS WORTH A TRY

CONVINCING PROOF OF THE ABOVE STATEMENT IS OFFERED BY MRS. MAGGIE BECKHORN, R. NO. 1, FRUITPORT, WHO SUFFERED 20 YEARS WITH PAINFUL ARTHRITIS, BEFORE SHE DISCOVERED O-JIB-WA BITTERS.

"It is unbelievable that one medicine could do so much for me, after so many other things failed. For 20 years I have suffered from rheumatism, arthritis and neuritis in my knees, hands and feet, and in fact, throughout my entire body. Although I tried different medicines and treatments constantly, nothing helped. It was awful discouraging as even baths and treatments at Hot Springs and Soap Lake didn't help me. My pains were so great that I could hardly walk. It felt like every bone in my body would break in two, and my fingers were so bad that I couldn't pick up anything. I had read about O-JIB-WA BITTERS, but never tried it until a man who works with my husband at the mill praised it so highly that I decided to give it a trial. I took O-JIB-WA BITTERS nearly four weeks before I saw much of a change, but I'm not complaining, as that is such a short period of time compared to the 20 years that I suffered. It's been a long time since I have been able to work and get around the way I do now. I don't have pains and cramps anymore. It's hard to believe that O-JIB-WA BITTERS could do so much after such a long time. O-JIB-WA BITTERS very highly, and especially want to stress to everyone trying it to continue with it for a while even though the pains have left. I have found that this will insure greater benefit."

Bells, Harnies Splurge At Bat To Post Softball Wins

The big bats were booming at Memorial Field in last night's American League softball game as Harnischfeger and the Dells posted victories.

The Dells rattled 16 hits off Leo and Franny Lancoeur to beat the White Birchers 14-7 in an eight-inning clash. The Dells exploded with seven runs in the top of the eighth to grab the victory.

The Harnies belted 13 hits off Walter Lake and Tackman while scoring a 12-2 victory over Hi-Way Tavern.

Les Kamine pitched three-hit ball and fanned five to fashion the victory from the Harnie mound. Joe Ricci had a perfect night at the plate with four hits in four trips. Pewee Marenager and Lowell LaPlant slugged homers. Tod Butler cracked a double and a triple and Kamine chipped in with a two-base blow for the winners.

The Eis twirled the win for Dells, allowing eight hits. One of the blows was a homer by Dick Marenger that tied the score in the last of the seventh to send the game into extra innings.

For the Dells, Don Paulin slugged out four hits in five times at bat. Tippy Legault clouted a homer in the first of the seventh and Keith Morin and Barney Millette each registered three hits in five trips.

The victory moved Harnischfeger up into a tie for first place with Bungalow of Gladstone atop the league standings. Both teams have won five against one defeat. The Dells evened their league record at two wins in four starts.

In a key game tonight, Bungalow meets the Merchants (4-1) at 8:30 in the second game of a doubleheader at Memorial Field. Claimants take on Paper Mill in the opener at 7:15 and Hyde faces Kessler's in a 6:45 contest at Royce Park.

Third Win For AFL In Little Bigger League

RESULTS YESTERDAY
Kiwanis 9, Elks 4
AFL 9, Insurance Association 6
Paper Co. 7, Delta Hardware 4

AFL ran up its third straight win in Little Bigger League action last night, defeating Insurance Association on a 14-hit attack off Bob Anderson.

In other games last evening the Kiwanis team climbed over 500 with its second win in three starts by tripping the Elks 9-4, and Paper Co. topped Delta Hardware 7-4.

AFL won on a four-hitter by John LaBranche, but had to come from behind to turn the trick. Insurance Association led 6-4 in the fifth. LaBranche sent 10 Insurance Association batsmen down swinging. Leading the winners at the plate were Don Rousseau with three hits and LaBranche with two for three.

Don Merrier hurled the victory for Kiwanis, scattering six hits fanning four an dawning eight. Bud Besson went the distance for the Elks, allowing five hits, whiffing 10 and walking five. Five errors kept the Elks in trouble.

Rotary Edges Lions By 2-0

Little League bats were unusually silent last night as Rotary edged the Lions 2-0. Only three hits were registered by the batsmen of both clubs.

Winning pitcher Tom Elegeert allowed the only Lions hit in the sixth with two away. Dick Arntzen poked one over second base. Elegeert walked the next two batters but a force play at the plate and an infield fly ended the game.

Ronnie Greenwood held the heavy-hitting Rotary team to a pair of hits while suffering the mound defeat.

Elegeert scored Rotary's first run in the fourth when he walked, stole second and third and came home on an infield out. An insurance run was provided by Mammy Bourdeau when he walked, moved to second on a sacrifice and came all the way home on an infield out.

Rotary committed only one error in the well-played game and the Lions were guilty of four.

In tonight's game St. Joe will play Kiwanis at 6. Ray Peterson will hurl for the Boosters with Bob Dagenais on the hill for Kiwanis.

Turpin Fights Humez For European Crown

By STERLING SLAPPEY
LONDON (AP)—Randy Turpin, golden boy of British boxing, fights Charles Humez, ex-coal miner from Pleadry, tonight to decide who wins Britain's version of the world's middleweight title and who gets an autumn shot at the full-scale world's title.

Their fight, before a sellout of 54,000 at London's open-air White City Stadium, should be followed within a week or two by an offer of a trip to New York in September.

Harry Markson, managing director of New York's International Boxing Club, is in London for the fight and almost definitely will offer the winner a September date against the winner of the Paddy Young-Bobo Olson American area elimination fight. Young and Olson meet in New York June 19.

He's Hungry Fighter
Even though odds were most British sentiment were against him, the compact French middleweight who looks more like a welterweight, was far from discouraged. Humez said he thought he would win because, he said, "I'm the hungry fighter. Randy Turpin is new. I'm the hungry man. I need the victory and the money."

Humez arrived in London from his Boulogne-sur-Mer training camp last year yesterday about the time Turpin arrived in Warwick from his Gwynch Castle camp in Northern Wales. Turpin planned to spend the night in Warwick and drove to London this morning in time for weighing in ceremonies.

Strange stories have leaked out of Wales about Turpin's training program—how he has been eating 20 grapefruit daily; his "mean" state of mind in which he pounded hard on sparring partners just as he did in July, 1951, before he upset Sugar Ray Robinson and won the world's middleweight title; the personelle shuffle among his trainers; and his inability to find worthy sparring partners.

Connoisseur Of Wine
Almost equally grim stories have come from Boulogne and the Humez camp. Reportedly he still goes heavy on the French wine, of which he is a connoisseur; he has battled through an astonishing 300 sparring rounds; he also had trouble finding sparring opponents; he has done hundreds of miles of roadwork and spent the remainder of his time fishing the streams near the Chateau de Menage.

Whoever wins tonight, the 26-year-old Frenchman or Turpin, who celebrates his 25th birthday Sunday, the victor will get only a sliver of the world's title. Hardly anybody besides Turpin, promoter Jack Solomons, the British Boxing Board of Control and the British people consider the fight as a world title affair. Not even the French say it's for the title and Humez himself dodged the touchy subject late yesterday.

Midwesterners Win Women's Keg Crowns

DETROIT (AP)—The record-breaking Women's International Bowling Congress tournament was history today, and out of the 61-day, 5,000-team event had emerged five champions—all from the Midwest.

Michigan claimed four of the five titles, and Illinois the other, as WIBC officials began dividing the $138,132 prize fund into some 17,000 checks.

Detroit won three titles: the B&B Chevrolet team in the regular five-woman bracket with 2931; Doris Knechtges, a member of that team, as all-events queen with 1886; and Miss Knechtges and Jane Grudzien as doubles titlists with 1211.

Suburban Pontiac's Griff's Grill team took the booster crown with a 2368.

Say Transfer Of Browns Assured

By GAYLE TALBOT
NEW YORK (AP)—We can tell you today on some of the best authority there is that the transfer of the St. Louis Browns to Baltimore will be approved when the American League magnates hold their next meeting at Cincinnati on July 13.

The phenomenal success of Milwaukee's debut as a big league city has altered the picture radically, our informant says. Where only two clubs, Cleveland and Chicago, voted to approve the transfer last spring, the count should be virtually unanimous this time.

Some of the owners still will not like Bill Veeck, the Browns' president, any better than they did in March and the feeling will be strongly reciprocated, but the rival league's Milwaukee venture has convinced them they are missing a bet. They like money, and they are not getting it in St. Louis.

One report is that a Baltimore group is prepared to pay Veeck and his associates over $2,000,000 for the franchise. If the anti-Veeck forces could be assured of such a deal, the vote at Cincinnati would be a formality. Veeck, though, is a stubborn young promoter who wants to remain in the big time, and our guess is he will force the men who "double crossed" him at Tampa to take him and Baltimore, both.

Braves' Slugger Catches Campy

NEW YORK (AP)—Brooklyn's Roy Campanella has been caught, and passed, by Eddie Mathews of the Milwaukee Braves, in the National League slugging race.

Slugging averages compiled by The Associated Press revealed today that Mathews, the Braves' 21-year-old third baseman, leads the senior circuit with a .707 average. Campanella is the runner-up with .653. Eddie has collected 118 total bases in 167 times at bat and Campy is 113-for-173.

In the American League, Al Rosen of the Cleveland Indians boasts the top mark of .598. The Tribe's third sacker has collected 101 total bases in 159 trips. Among his 55 hits are eight doubles, one triple and 12 home runs.

Mickey Mantle of the New York Yankees has 101 total bases in 176 times up for a .574 slate, to rank behind Rosen in the American League. The speedy outfielder numbers 12 doubles, two triples and eight homers among his 61 hits.

Chicago Cubs Lead League—in Errors
PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The last-place Chicago Cubs topped the National League in at least one department today—errors.

The Cubs made four miscues Monday against the Phillies and now have 58 for the season. Their fielding average of .965 is the lowest in the senior circuit.

The Arcadians bowling team, sponsored by Carl Sawyer, recently received checks for $162.62 for their efforts in the doubles, singles, all-events and team divisions in the ABC tournament in Chicago. Members of the team are Phenix Benard, Herb Bergman, Eddie Gravelle, Chuck Peltier and Don Feller.

Dates for the district and Upper Peninsula tournaments for Legion Junior baseball players were announced by state headquarters. Gladstone will be host to the 11th district tournament July 11-12. The Upper Peninsula (zone 5) tournament will be staged at Menominee on July 18-19.

Escanaba's activities in baseball are apparently well known throughout the state. Paul "Dizzy" Trout, ex-Tiger hurler who works with Van Patrick on the Detroit baseball broadcasts, recently commented over the air on the extensive baseball program Escanaba offers to youngsters of this area. And not long ago, Associated Press sports writer Joe Falls noted in a state-wide column that the Escanaba High School team had racked up 28 straight victories for an Upper Peninsula record.

The city recreation department will offer a baseball movie, entitled "Play Ball, Son," at Royce Park Wednesday evening at 8:30. All young ball players and managers of teams are invited to view the film which is distributed by the Ford Motor Co.

The Upper Peninsula All-Star football game, which was an annual feature at Negaunee up to last year, has been called off for this August. One of the main difficulties has been securing outstanding players to compete in the affair. Most seniors who star on the gridiron have some sort of college commitments and their future college coaches frown on post school competition of this sort. It's doubtful if the all-star game will ever be staged again.

Tigers Elated After Loss Streak Ends With 6-3 Win

By JOE FALLS
DETROIT (AP)—Nobody was rushing to buy World Series tickets at Briggs Stadium today even though the Detroit Tigers felt as though they had just won the American League pennant.

The battered Bengals, winless since May 22, ended their frustrating 13-game losing streak Monday by whipping the Boston Red Sox, 6-3, behind the eight-hit pitching of Ned Garver.

There was joy a-plenty in the Tiger clubhouse as the players acted like condemned men getting a pardon. The nightmare was over and all were relieved.

Players Feel Great
"Man," said Jerry Priddy, "I feel like we had just won the pennant."

"You can say that again," added outfielder Jim Delsing. "There's only one word for it—great!"

Leftfielder Don Lund had just showered. There was a wide grin on his handsome face as he said, "I should relax us all," said Lund. "We should play better ball from now on."

While the players exchanged jibes and back-slaps a tired-looking man sat by himself in one corner of the room. He was sipping a beer. He looked as though he had just carried a piano up 13 flights of stairs.

It was Manager Fred Hutchinson.

Held Secret Meeting
"Well, Hutch," said one reporter, jokingly, "It's great to be a winner."

"Yeah," said Hutchinson, smiling. It was only one victory but you could see that it pleased him. Before the game, the Tigers had held a secret meeting. They talked over their troubles and decided that the only solution was constant hustle, that the breaks would even up.

But after six innings, it looked as though the Tigers were headed for their 14th straight setback—which would have set a club record for consecutive losses.

They hadn't gotten the breaks again. Hoot Evers of the Red Sox hit a two-run homer in the second. The ball was fair by inches.

Crowd Even Boos
The Tigers tied it up in their half of the second on Bob Nieman's homer and three straight singles by Delsing, Walt Dropo and Matt Batts.

Boston took a 3-2 lead in the fifth on Evers' run-scoring single and the small crowd of 2,195 boomed, as if to say: "Here we go again, another Tiger loss."

But the Tigers ripped across four runs in a seventh-inning rally to end all the suffering. Jim Delsing's infield single knocked in the lead run and a triple by Batts accounted for two insurance runs.

Name Athletes To Vie In Annual Track Meet

CHICAGO (AP)—Big Ten and Pacific Coast Conference track squads, totaling 13 athletes, were named today for the annual inter-conference meet at the University of Michigan June 23.

The Big Ten will be represented by a squad of 36, one less than its rival. Champion Illinois will have 12 places on the Big Ten team and Southern California will dominate the west coast troupe with 10.

The two squads are built around the first three place winners in each event of the conferences' championship meets. The coast team, however, will be without olympic decathlon champion Bob Mathias of Stanford, who is soon to be married, and two-mile titlist Al Fisher of Washington State, who had summer employment commitments.

Two Record-Breakers
The PCC team will include two record-breakers in the shot put and discus, both of U. S. C. Parry O'Brien recently bettered his own world mark in the shot with a toss of 59 feet 2 1/2 inches. Sim Iness, American record-holder in the discus, has a heave of 185-5 this season.

In 11 inter-conference meets, the coast holds a winning margin of 7 to 4.

Other best marks and respective opponents:

100 yard dash—Willie Williams, Illinois, .094 (with wind); Bob Gary, Washington State, .096.
220-yard dash—Williams, .212 (around curve); Gary, .210.
440-yard dash—Jack Carroll, Michigan, .481; Jim Lea, U. S. C., .473.
880-yard run—Stacey Siders, Illinois, 1:51.4; Lon Spurrier, California, 1:52.7.
1 mile—John Ross, Michigan, 4:11.4; Bob Fornia, Washington, 4:12.5.

Tiger Tales

DETROIT (AP)—Overheard in Briggs Stadium.

Catcher Matt Batts thinks the warm weather will help the pitchers. "Why," he said, "guys like Tautman and Marlowe and Garver have perked up with the warm weather. Garver is throwing faster and faster each game."

Right-hander Ned Garver had just snapped the Tigers' losing streak with his fourth victory but he wasn't too elated. "I can pitch better than this," he said. "When I get my control back I'm going to be rough on them all."

Harvey Kuenni, Tiger shortstop, made three hits, giving him 66 for the season and tying him with Washington's Mickey Vernon for the American League base-hit lead. The boy looks like a five-year pro at shortstop, instead of a rookie.

Redlegs Back Hornsby With Winning Streak

By BEN PHLEGAR
AP Sportswriter
Rogers Hornsby, reportedly on the skids as manager of Cincinnati as recently as a week ago, was riding high today with a five-game winning streak and the sluggingest club in the majors.

With the advent of June the happy Redlegs have busted out all over. They've pulverized opposition pitching for 65 hits in their last five games, producing 46 runs in their longest victory string of the season.

The word was spread late last month that the Cincinnati players were fed up with Hornsby and his iron hand rule. The club was down, both mentally and in the standings.

Win Six of Eight
But on their current road trip the Redlegs are playing at a .750 clip, winning six of eight, including an 8-5 verdict last night over the Brooklyn Dodgers, who were trying for five in a row of their own.

Starring in the revival are sluggers Gus Bell and Ted Kluszewski and relief ace Frank Smith. Bell has driven in 10 runs in the last five games. His 11 hits over that span include six for extra bases. Big Klue hammered his 16th home run last night, moving within one of the league lead.

Smith has the National League's best pitching average. He won his fifth straight game as he took over from wobbly Howie Judson at Brooklyn in the fourth and protected the Redlegs' lead.

Blow For Dodgers
Cincinnati's most recent success was a bitter pill for the Dodgers, who slipped a full game behind the Milwaukee Braves. The Braves plastered the New York Giants, 12-8, in an afternoon contest.

The St. Louis Cardinals, who had lost five straight battled 12 innings against the Pittsburgh Pirates, winless in their last four starts, before picking up a 5-3 triumph. Philadelphia defeated Chicago, 7-3, in the other National League game.

In the only American League contest the Detroit Tigers finally won a game after 13 setbacks interspersed with two extra-inning ties. The Tigers scored four runs in the seventh inning to whip Boston, 6-3, for their first success since May 22.

A single by Walt Dropo brought home one run and two more scored on a triple by Matt Batts in the seventh-inning rally.

Lame In Field
Cincinnati got ahead in a hurry at Brooklyn, scoring twice in the first inning on Bell's two-run homer and then adding five more in the fourth on five singles, including a two-run blow by Bell, and a pair of walks.

The Giants and Cubs both suffered fielding collapses that would have looked pretty bad in a class D league.

At the Polo Grounds the New Yorkers, ahead 2-1, presented Milwaukee with four unearned runs in the sixth inning on three errors and one lonely hit. With the gates opened, the Braves poured in seven more runs in the next two frames to move ahead 12-2 before the Giants quick recovered.

Surkont Wins 7th
Max Surkont registered victory No. 7 for Milwaukee against one loss with Sal Maglie taking the defeat, his first at the hands of the Braves in two seasons.

At Connie Mack Stadium the Cubs committed four errors in the second inning which permitted the Phillies to score four runs—their eventual margin of victory.

Steve Riddick, who took over from Bob Miller in the fifth inning, was the Philadelphia winner over Paul Minner.

Steve Bilko doubled home Red Schoendienst with the tie-breaking St. Louis run in the top of the 12th at Pittsburgh and rode in on a single by Rip Repuski. The rally climaxed a pitcher's battle in which Paul Lepalm, knuckleballing southpaw of the Pirates, struck out 11 and walked only three in 11 innings. He was lifted for a pinch-hitter and the winning runs came off Johnny Hetki.

Four hurlers toiled for the Cardinals with Al Brazle, the third man, getting the decision.

Yesterday's Stars

Batting—Eddie Mathews, Milwaukee Braves, hit his 17th home run, tying Roy Campanella for the league lead, doubled and singled, driving in five runs in the Braves' 12-8 victory over New York.

Pitching—Ned Garver, Detroit Tigers, scattered eight hits in Detroit's 6-3 victory over Boston.

HARDWARE'S TO PRACTICE
The Delta Hardware Little Bigger League team will hold a practice Wednesday at 5:30, at Royce Park diamond. All players are requested to be there.

National Open Golf Tourney Gets Going

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.
OAKMONT, Pa. (AP)—The longest open golf championship of all—the 2nd National Open Tournament—began today with at least some of the contestants arguing that it should be longer.

Play started this morning in the 36-hole qualifying round on two courses—the 6,916-yard Oakmont Country Club and the 6,712-yard Pittsburgh Field Club. After two days in which every player in the field of 299 will shoot both courses, the low-scoring 149 and ties for 149th will start all over.

They will be joined by Defending Champion Julius Boros in the 72-hole main event over Oakmont's fear-inspiring acres. That means those who go clear through will play 108 holes this week on top of the 36 most of them had to play in the sectional qualifying rounds to get this far.

Provokes Gripes
The on-the-site qualifying is an innovation this year and it provoked a lot of discussion in the locker room grouching sessions yesterday.

It was Cary Middlecoff, the 1949 Open champion, who made the suggestion that the whole 144 holes should be lumped into one tournament to make it a fairer test of golfing ability. He said:

"I'd like to see them make it something like the Women's Cross-Country Tournament with three or four tournaments at different locations and the championship decided on the aggregate scores for all of them. 'If the USGA won't do that, they should throw out this qualifying and make the tournament longer for everybody.'"

Several of the listening pros agreed with him, possibly because such an endurance test might eliminate the Ben Hogan menace.

Hogan, who has won more money in four tournaments this year than most pros have all season, is No. 1 on the list of players to beat. But he doesn't think his strength is up to marathon events and probably wouldn't enter a 144-hole Open.

The little little Texan has entered only four major events this year and won three—the Masters, the Pan-American Open and the Ft. Worth Colonial Invitation. The long, expansive but heavily trapped Oakmont course is suited to his game and unless the extra 36 holes tires him, there doesn't seem to be anything to stop him.

Some of the other favorites include Boros, who hasn't finished first in a tournament since he won the Open and Tam O'Shanter world championship last summer; Lloyd Mangrum, the leading money winner of the year; Lew Worsham, the home-club pro and 1947 Open champion; South Africa's Bobby Locke, who holds the British Open title; Sam Snead, a perennial also-ran, rotund Ed Oliver, the 1952 runner-up, and lanky Johnny Bulla, who finished fourth at Dallas last year and who is quite familiar with the Oakmont layout.

Dukes Inks Contract With Globetrotters

NEW YORK (AP)—Walt Dukes, all six foot, 11 inches of him, squeezed into a plane with Abe Saperstein, owner of the Harlem Globetrotters Monday night and was whisked off to London to join the famed all-Negro basketball circus on a world tour.

The 22-year-old native of Rochester, N. Y., was signed for something like $25,000 a year, which Saperstein said was the highest salary ever give a newcomer to the pro ranks.

An All-America at Seton Hall, Walter was drafted by the New York Knickerbockers, but the Knicks could not match Saperstein's offer.

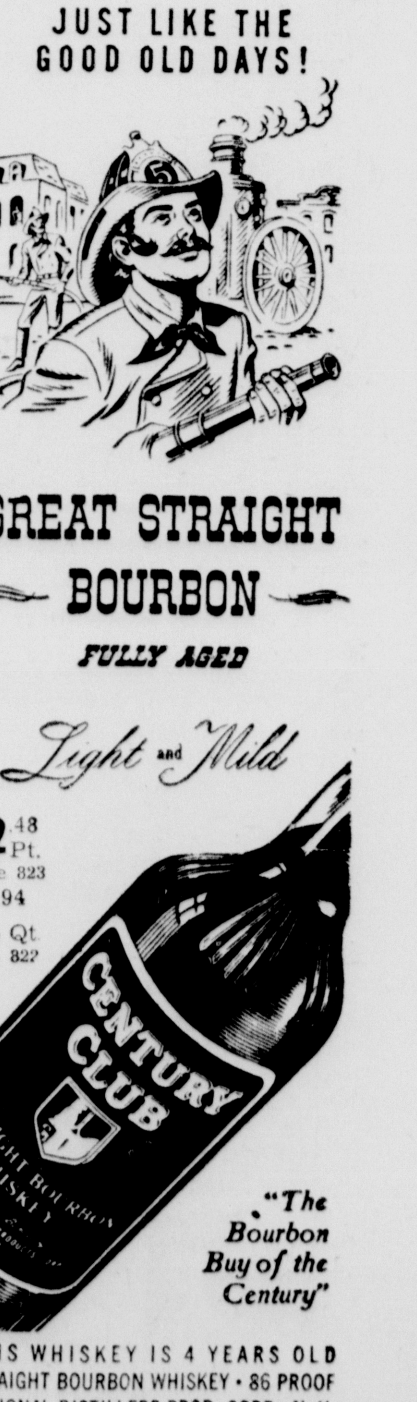

Kansas State Cages Coach Eyes New Job

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—Kansas State basketball coach Jack Gardner is expected to decide today whether to take the head basketball coaching job at the University of Utah.

Utah president A. Ray Olpin said Monday that Gardner had been selected by the Utah Board of Regents over 37 other applicants.

Neither Olpin nor Gardner disclosed salary or contract terms. Gardner's salary at Kansas State is $9,450 per year. Utah's retiring coach Vadal Peterson receives $7,500.

U. S. Gets Rare Pony From Ireland
DUBLIN, Ireland (AP)—A new kind of Irish emigrant leaves for the United States in April—a four-year-old Connemara pony. The pony, a roan mare, is believed to be the first of this graceful breed ever sold to the United States. Frank Tierney of Ridgefield, Connecticut, saw it running wild on Connemara bogland and bought it on the spot.

Former owner R. T. Curley now has had the pony trained for children's riding and hopes it may start a demand for Connemaras among American youngsters.

Birth Control Panic
SINGAPORE (AP)—Medical authorities here are using loudspeaker vans to convince illiterate Chinese villagers in the rural areas that government is not carrying out birth control operations during medical checks on their children.

The rumors started when government doctors visited the rural schools for medical checkups of the children, during which the sex organs were examined for hygienic reasons.

But panic spread among the villagers who believed the check was to tamper with the reproductive functions of children owing to the rapidly expanding population.

Terror Of Twister At Flint Described

By FENTON LUDTKE
FLINT, Mich. (AP)—"It was horrible. It was the most terrible thing I ever saw."

That's the way John J. Turbin of Coldwater Road described the tornado that spread death and devastation over his neighborhood.

Turbin and his wife and two relatives escaped unhurt, while neighbors were left in pain and death, their homes leveled by the twisting wind that hit the area about 8:45 p.m. last night.

"I don't know why it didn't get us," Turbin, a retired Chevrolet worker, said in bewilderment.

His son Carl whispered, "Thank God, thank God."

Barn Disappears

Carl and his wife came in search of the Turbins when they heard of the tornado. When they saw the sagging Turbin home, Mrs. Carl Turbin said: "I just knew they were dead."

Instead of finding death, they found Carl's father, despite his terrifying experience, out helping rescue workers.

Carl and his 6-year-old son Dennis had just left the elder Turbin's home minutes before the twister struck. They were storing some of Carl's belongings in the barn, which was blown away after they left it.

With John Turbin and his wife were Chris Carlson, Turbin's brother-in-law, and Mrs. Elsie Booth, Turbin's sister, who lives in Mulligan, Mich.

"I looked out the dining room window," Turbin recalled, "and saw an 18-inch-wide maple tree twirled and twisted right out of the ground. There was a terrific noise and I felt something strike the house with awful force."

Neighbor's Body Found

"A giant hand seemed to push me suddenly and I flew through the doorway into the kitchen against the stove. My wife and sister were sitting at the kitchen table. Chris was in the dining room."

"Let's get out of here," Turbin warned them. Then he grabbed a two-by-four that had fallen from the ceiling and smashed a front dining room window and all four were safe from the savage wind.

Outside, Turbin found his barn was gone. His garage and breeze-way attached to his home were gone. His home was slapped off its foundation, and part of a room was in a nearby field.

Turbin found the body of a neighbor on his lawn. The corpse had been wind-tossed at least 400 feet from a home across the road.
